In a recent issue of the Rochester, New York, Democrat and Chronicle, there appeared an editorial commenting on the fact that a Connecticut clergyman, finding his congregations were growing discouragingly small, while those who attended the experience meetings had nothing to say, hit upon the novel expedient of distributing free chewing gum to his audience. He believed that if he could get the jaws of the people to moving in some manner, that they would begin to talk and that active participation in the service would increase to his interest. According to the Rochester paper, the gum proved effective and now the congregation is steadily growing in numbers and the members of it bring their dinners and stay to talk of their neighbors' affairs.

Connecticut has an international reputation for its inventions; the Connecticut nutmeg is known the world over. It is surprising that this practical minded minister did not offer a free lunch composed of pumpkin pie flavored with this home made condiment, as an inducement to his dilatory parishioners. Then he might have added an elocution teacher to give free lessons in the mouth relaxing exercises of diction. Oh! there are many things he might have done. Perhaps if he added inspiration, enthusiasm and eloquence to his sermons, it would have been conducive of increased attendance, and if he couldn't do that he might have gone to sawing wood and let some better man occupy his pulpit.

The Woman's club bazaar which is to occur on the coming Tuesday afternoon from 2:30 to 5 o'clock and in the evening from 7:30 to 10, is to be the finest of the annual bazaars yet attempted by the club. The decorations will not be as elaborate as heretofore because the beauty of the new building is sufficiently pleasing with its harmony of coloring, wood work, artistic lights and the contour and furnishings to make a background that will serve to show off to advantage the booths with their displays of handiwork and delicacies, fancy work and et ceteras sold on such occasions.

It is probable that a greater part of the articles offered for sale, will be gone by evening but it is intended to supply the refreshment and candy booths so generously that there will be plenty to serve all who come in the evening. From 7:30 to 10 p. m. there will be an informal reception and an opportunity given those who wish to inspect the new building, to do so under the guidance of club members who will take pride in displaying the conveniences and comforts of their new home. Strangers in the city who are interested in club work are cordially invited to attend the bazaar, either as purchasers or visitors and if they wish to look about the building, a guide will be furnished them, if they make their wishes known to some of the ladies in attendance.

Another attractive feature which is likely to furnish considerable amusement, is the fortune telling booth. It will be in charge of Madame Seerowsky, whose powers of divination are eerie in their weirdness and what is still more remarkable, are sometimes true. Madame Seerowsky is an interpreter of visions, a reader of palms, and one who gleams knowledge from the stars as they follow their courses. Because of her friendly interest in the Woman's club she will read fortunes at the coming bazaar at a very nominal fee. No charge is made for the following effusion regarding Madame Seerowsky, who is in no way responsible for it. She reads the stars as you read news. Your palm is an open book. Your past and future are as plain to her.

As your present day outlook.
Your love, your fortune, your future days
She will tell to you aright
But her own is an itching palm they say

That must be crossed with silver bright.
Among the well known Phoenix women who will have charge of booths at the bazaar is Mrs. Dwight B. Heard, who will sell dolls of every description, from the handsomest dressed society doll that ever delighted the heart of a little maid at Christmas time, to the cunning "Adolph," a negro rag doll that is to be one of sonny's chief delights.

The linen booth under direction of Mrs. E. T. Collins, will delight the eyes of all ladies, for they all love hand embroidered and hand made waists, under garments and all the beautiful things that dainty women wear who have the time to make them or the price to pay for them.

The bag booth is in the care of Mrs. H. B. Wilkinson, and in it will be found bags made from the elaborate opera glass bag to the plebeian but useful laundry bag.

Aprons of the common or kitchen variety, aprons of the coquettish or pretty waitress kind, sewing aprons, baby aprons, and every sort of apron known to the feminine portion of the genus homo, will be sold by Mrs. E. E. Kirkland in the apron booth.

Mrs. W. W. McKeeff will dispense confectionery and taffy in a charming manner.

Mrs. Ancil Martin will dispose of ice cream cones at a very small price for the refreshment of the inner man, who if he has not had a plenty will be eagerly welcomed at the regular refreshment booth conducted by Mrs. Emory Kays. This stall is to be a veritable horn of plenty and will be filled with a collection of goodies only possible to obtain when some of the most notable culinary experts of the city, display their cooking to help one of their pet projects.

The miscellaneous booth will be in care of Mrs. J. B. Kelly and will include articles of various kinds which should be of great assistance to the person who is uncertain what to purchase for Christmas gifts for many of his friends.

The bargain department is bound to be popular if all the witticisms which are prevalent regarding the feminine love of a bargain, be true. At this table everybody may grab a bargain at bargain prices. Right in this connection it might be appropriate to say, that the Woman's club has established the precedent of asking reasonable prices for its products in direct contravention of the custom in so many places. This has been remarked by persons who have attended the bazaars in other years and the writer is simply quoting the opinion of those who would be in position to know.

The Young Men's Phoenix club gave a banquet Friday evening to its members and friends, at which several candidates on the republican ticket spoke on subjects of national importance. Anyone who attended the dinner and listened to the speakers, if his sense of humor happened to be at all active, could not help but remark how strenuously the orators in question tried to forget that they were candidates.

The music was excellent. The Y. M. C. A. orchestra is one of the coming musical organizations of the city and is growing deservedly popular. Mrs. Francis Redwell made the hit of the evening, not even excepting the guests of honor, the speakers. Mrs. Redwell has a beautiful voice which has been well trained and her Irish folk song, was too clever for words, accentuated as it was by the green hat and foulard silk gown with green dots worn by the singer.

Miss Bernice Horrell played Mrs. Redwell's accompaniment and also entertained the banqueters with a piano solo of which they showed their appreciation by long continued applause.

The Young Men's Phoenix club intends holding another banquet soon, at which the democratic candidates will also discuss affairs of national interest and demonstrate how clever they can be at forgetting their own personal ambitions.

To many readers of The Republican the name of Mrs. Emma Telford is familiar, through her writings on domestic science that have appeared from time to time, as well as other contributions. Mrs. Telford devotes a portion of her time to the lecture platform being associated with the department of education of the New York city schools. A recent circular announcing the lectures provided during the months of October, November and December, mentions one by Mrs. Telford. The subject of it is "Arizona, the Cradle and the Wonderland of the New World." The lecture is illustrated by stereoscopic views and is comprised of the personal observations of the lecturer in camp with the Indians of the southwest. Mrs. Telford is the mother of Mrs. H. D. Evans of the Evans school near Mesa City, and was a visitor there only a few weeks ago.

On Tuesday afternoon of this week some twenty ladies of the south side met at the home of Mrs. J. J. Gould, who resides just off Center street on the base line, and organized a Ladies' Aid society. Their aim is to do charitable work and a committee was appointed to decide the line of work to be taken up. Reception, social and literary committees were also appointed by the president, Mrs. K. S. Townsend. It was decided that the society meet every first and third Wednesday in each month and Mrs. Kay invited the ladies to meet at her home Wednesday, Dec. 6.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and everyone felt that the afternoon had been a most enjoyable one. Every woman on the south side will be cordially welcomed at the next meeting.

The ladies with bottomless purses, however, exquisite their taste for the beautiful, cannot possess themselves of all the fall finery in these parts, for the capitol grounds are rooted down to the same old place and cannot be carried away. Superintendent Keene has had them all at their best. The word "all" is used purposely for it means that the lawns in the rear of the building, which until recently were bare back yards, are now as green with their well mowed grass as are the far famed plots in front of the capitol. Flowers have been planted around the rear lawns and many chrysanthemums of varied colors are now in bloom, while the front gardens are as gorgeous in floral beauty as it is possible for a garden to be. The species of flowers are not so numerous as in the spring but the variety of coloring in roses, chrysanthemums and such other flowers as are in bloom, gives the scene just as rich a rainbow aspect as one can see in May time.

A new social organization was formed last Friday evening by some of the younger men of the city, to be known as the El Navarro club and the following officers were elected: Frank Donovan, president; Randolph McElhaney, vice president; John McCoy, secretary, and Arnold Blumenthal, treasurer. The purpose of the club is entirely social and the intention is to give dances occasionally.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. F. Barnes gave a delightful dinner party on Thursday evening at The Annex. Covers were laid for ten. Their guests were: Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Gatter, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Thornton, Miss Mayme Snyder, Miss Barnes, Mr. Homer Martyn, Mr. Chas. H. Coulter.

A recital given by the advanced pupils of C. R. Nuetzel, director of voice, and Clem A. Townner, director of piano, at the Arizona School of Music, last Wednesday evening, was attended by about 500 people and the large auditorium was completely filled with an appreciative audience. Miss Bernice Horrell acted as accompanist to the singers and the following delightful program was rendered.

The Annex was a scene of festivity on Thursday evening, when Mrs. Josephine Barnes entertained the guests of the hotel and a number of outside friends, at a dancing party in the large parlor of the new building. The room was made both beautiful and fragrant with La France roses and punch was served throughout the evening for the refreshment of the dancers. Beside the guests in the hotel, the following ladies and gentlemen were present: Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Gatter, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Batie, Miss Mayme Snyder, Miss Jessie Grant, Mrs. Van Laudingham, Miss Lucy Grant, Miss Berger, Miss Marjorie Grant, Miss Halley, Mr. and Mrs. John Page, Mr. and Mrs. Minium, Mr. and Mrs. Brayhook, Mr. H. M. Martin, Mr. Chas. H. Coulter, Mr. Mosselle, Mr. Osborn, Mr. Hall, Mr. Bennett Miller, Mr. Joe Cassou, Mr. W. H. Hedges.

Dr. J. G. Evans, who has been visiting his friends, Dr. and Mrs. Grant Monica, at 25 North Second avenue, left a few days ago for San Francisco, from which port he sailed yesterday for Hong Kong, China, on the steamer Persia, of which ship Dr. Evans has been appointed surgeon. It is expected that the boat will return some time in February.

Mrs. Philip Wiesner of 808 North Second street, who has been ill for several weeks, is again able to be up for a short time though it will probably be many weeks before she entirely recovers her health. Mrs. Wiesner enjoyed a pleasant call from two of her Mesa friends, Mesdames H. L. Chandler and J. L. Waring last Wednesday.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church, held a social tea in the parlors of their religious home, at the corner of Third avenue and Adams street, on Friday afternoon from 2 until 5 o'clock. About 150 ladies called during the afternoon.

On Wednesday afternoon, the ladies of the Trinity parish enjoyed tea and social converse at the home of Mrs. Bonnet Gough, 804 North Fourth avenue. The affair was conducive of much friendliness on the part of the Episcopalian ladies and served to welcome strangers who have become recent members of the congregation.

A recent marriage which is of interest to many Phoenix people, is that of Mr. Clarence Duncan and Miss Florence Edwards. It occurred at the home of the pastor of the Baptist church, Reverend J. Harvey Deere, who recited the marriage vows. Mr. Duncan is a well known manufacturing jeweler of the city, and his bride is the daughter of Mr. H. C. Edwards, a real estate dealer. Mr. and Mrs. Duncan intend making their home in Phoenix, much to the gratification of their many friends who wish them happiness and prosperity along the way of life.

Mr. Charles K. Pishon left the latter part of the week on a business trip to Prescott and the northern part of the territory.

Miss Edna Hoffman has gone to the mile high city to attend the Thanksgiving dance to be held at the Yavapai club of Prescott.

Mr. Sidney Goldman and his bride who was until recently Miss Jacoby of Los Angeles, are stopping at the Adams hotel.

The Prescott football team, which used the local high school boys as a carpet, a few weeks ago in Prescott, and simply walked all over them, is coming to Phoenix Thanksgiving to see if they can beat them on the line. One has enough pride to hope that the carpet will get up and dust.

The Phoenix lads have proven themselves magnanimous to say the least, as they intend giving the visitors a ball in the evening as well as a ball game in the afternoon.

Mr. Charles Goldman, accompanied by his son Edgie and his daughter Rosabelle, have departed for Europe to spend the winter.

One of the pleasant social affairs of the past week, was the sewing party given by Mrs. H. M. Gulliver of North Fifth street, for her own and her husband's mother, who is here from Flint, Michigan, for a visit at the Gulliver home. Delicious refreshments were served and the ladies spent an enjoyable afternoon and found Mesdames Gulliver and Hauxhurst very charming ladies.
